
COMING UP IN OCTOBER is the silver Jubilee of St. Lucy's parish.

Big things are planned for this event which will commemorate the founding of the local parish 25 years ago.

Shucks, everybody knows that St. Lucy's was in existence long before 1947.

Technically, however, it did not become a full-fledged parish until 1947.

Prior to that time it was a "mission" operated under the parish of St. Martin's in San Jose.

Depending on how one looks at things, 25 years can be either a long time or just a brief interlude.

When one is "growing up," for example, 25 years seems like an eternity.

But it is all a question of relativity.

Those of us who are politely termed to be in the "middle-age" bracket, often times think of 25 years as just "yesterday."

What we are trying to say, of course, is that the record of St. Lucy's is quite complete (through the files of The Campbell Press and other sources) since 1947.

But, holy smoke, it is difficult to dig up anything prior to 1947 about the St. Lucy's Mission.

Tempus fugit.

VERY OBVIOUSLY THE expansion of the St. Lucy's parish in Campbell is a very important part of the history of Campbell.

After all, it would be sort of silly to ignore the fact that in the space of 25 years there have been three different (count 'em) churches serving the parish.

The first church of the parish was on Rincon Ave. in the building now occupied by the Free Will Baptist Church. That served the parish, after it was changed from the mission status, until 1957. It had become a trifle cramped by that time.

Then the new church was built on Winchester Blvd. and occupied in 1957. The sanctuary was spacious. It held 600 people.

But that, too, became cramped.

And in 1967, the present St. Lucy's Church was opened which has a capacity of 1200.

The growth of St. Lucy's parish has been phenomenal, of course.

And, as we say, it has been part of the change in Campbell that has taken place during the last two decades or so.

-0-

FOR EXAMPLE, THE original parish of St. Lucy's which was formed in 1947 encompassed a huge area, including, as a case in point, the present parish of St. Frances Cabrini in Cambrian Park.

And, during recent years, the original St. Lucy's parish was divided twice more. A number of years ago, the formation of the Queen of Apostle's Church on Moorpark took part of the original parish.

Then St. Thomas of Canterbury more recently was put on McCoy Ave. right at the city limits of Campbell and St. Lucy's parish was cut into again.

St. Thomas of Canterbury was formed, incidentally, just as St. Lucy's had completed the new parish church which had doubled the capacity of the old one.

We have never quite figured out the reasoning on that move.

But then again, our prime objective over the years since we have been in Campbell has been to keep The Campbell Press reasonably solvent.

So, admittedly, it could be that we may have a different perspective.

BEFORE PLANNING COMMISSION MONDAY

City gets town-house plans for part of Amato property

A zone change request from R-1 to P-D (planned development) for 14 acres of the Amato property adjacent to the expressway which will allow a town house project on the parcel has been filed with the Planning Commission. It will be on the agenda for the meeting next Monday, Aug. 21. The Commission meets at 7:30 p.m.

The proposed town house development adjoins the 17-acres of the Amato property on which approval in June was given Dura Style Homes, the same applicant for a subdivision of 83 single-family homes.

According to the city planning office, the proposed town house project calls for 98 units or a density of seven units per acre. The plan proposes to set aside seven acres of the 14-acre parcel in open space. It is estimated that buildings will cover about 22% of the total area, excluding streets.

The single-family development on 17 acres was approved after months of hassling over the original plan for the entire Amato property that had been submitted by Mike Engdol of Dura Style Homes. The original plan had called for a town house development for the entire area.

Residents in the adjacent neighborhoods protested the proposal from the beginning and, after the Planning Commission and City Council had approved the town-house project, a referendum petition was filed with sufficient signatures to call an election on the issue.

The Council repealed the zoning ordinance that would allow the development and subsequently Engdol received approval for the single-family project on the 14 acres.

Other items on next Monday's Planning Commission agenda include an appeal by San Tomas Auto Parts from staff denial of a roof sign for the firm in the San Tomas Plaza Shopping Center.

A continued hearing is scheduled on the request of Vinod K. Kamboj to convert a residence at 880 E. Campbell Ave. into commercial use and also for the application of E.L. Eberhardt for a warehouse at 103 Dillon Avenue.

Another continued matter on the agenda is the use permit request of Carl McGee to convert a single-family residence at 42 W. Campbell Ave.

Resident questions legality

One of the leading opponents in the long-drawn out controversy over the proposed town house development on the 31-acre Amato property that culminated in a referendum petition and the ultimate repeal by the council of the zoning ordinance, contended before the City Council Monday night that the new proposal now before the Planning Commission for a similar development on 14 acres of the property was illegal.

Bob Sneed, of 241 Victor, said that the election code specifies that there must be a 12-month moratorium after a "repeal" before the same plan can be filed again. He maintained that the plan filed by Dura Style Homes for 14 acres is in effect the same plan that was originally presented.

The Council directed the city attorney to check on all the legal ramifications involved before the public hearing next Monday, Aug. 21.

City car bids fail to do job

Because the bids submitted for three passenger cars for the city staff did not meet specifications and, in addition, exceeded the amount budgeted, the City Council rejected them on Monday night and directed City Manager Bob Stephens to negotiate and purchase the cars from sources that would meet the specifications and budget requirements.

The city manager and Police Chief Don Burr had reported to the Council that cars were available that would meet the city's requirements.

In another action affecting city cars, the Council authorized the purchase of three police cars through the State of California of the type used by the highway patrol.

In another bidding matter, the Council awarded the con-

CONSTRUCTION AT CAPRI

City-school neighborhood park project gets moving

A joint city-school neighborhood parks program that was initiated by a successful city bond issue in 1969 began to materialize this week when construction started on the installation of playground equipment at Capri School.

In 1969 the voters of the city approved an allocation of $80,000 from park bond funds for the development with school district and parent cooperation of neighborhood parks at seven schools in the Campbell Union (elementary) School District and one in Moreland.

The allocation was to be divided equally at $10,000 per school. Subsequently the Department of Housing and Urban Development granted $25,000 additional to be spread among four schools, San Tomas, Hazelwood, Forest Hill and Capri.

An allocation of $15,000 has been specified for Capri School.

According to Frank Lewis, of the city's public works department, coordinator of the program, parent organizations in each of the schools developed plans and ideas for the parks with the city handling the purchase and installation of the equipment that was needed.

Lewis explained that the Capri School installation, when completed will include a "log climber", a "maze" and a "frontier outpost."

He said that installation of playground equipment at Rosemary and Forest Hill Schools is scheduled to be started soon.

Lewis said also that the city will install sprinkler systems for the areas improved. Under the agreement with the school district, the district will maintain the parks once the equipment is in place, except in the Rincon Park sector where the city will assume the maintenance costs of the area that will be jointly operated.

LOOKING OUT---Pat Striegel and Philip Martin peer out from behind the log barrier that is part of the playground equipment being installed at Capri School as part of the joint city-school neighborhood park program.

Building permits show drop from last year

Although building in Campbell for the first seven months this year is far below that of last year's record-breaking pace, this year to date is far ahead of any other year except for '71, according to Wally Byron, building official.

The building permit total for this July reached $641,846 to bring the total for the year to date to $8,373,486. In July of last year, the McKeon Construction took out permits for 83 units on the former Gomes ranch which was responsible for raising the total that month to $4.9 million and pushing the eventual year's total past the $15.7 million mark.

The total for last year was $18.4 million, setting an all-time record. The totals for the prior two years, 1970 and 1969, were less than the seven-month figure this year.

Permits for 13 single-family homes on Sunnypark Court, a development of Kunkel-Thomas, totalling $234,984 made up a good portion of the June total this year. So far in 1972, there have been 27 permits for single-family residences for $487,459. Last year at this time only three such permits for $71,770 had been issued.

One multiple-unit permit was issued in July to Roland Bruntz at 1305 W. Campbell for six units for $74,738.

The other main building activity centered in the commercial area with Nuclear Services Corp. taking out a $174,504 permit for offices at 477 Division St. An office and warehouse permit was also issued to Olavarri, Hamm. Kronzen and Kronzen at 1249 Dell Ave. for $86,618.

Jack Trimble of Trimble Construction Co. was issued a permit for $15,435 for an industrial building at 75 Dillon and Garland Spears received an industrial building permit at 175 Curtner for $2,131.

Alteration and addition permits came to $14,969 for July and five permits for swimming pools totalled $19,000. There have been 30 pool permits issued in 1972 to date for $72,500.

Seven signs accounted for $5,700 and there have been 30 for the first seven months for $20,450.

Two appeals must wait

Appeals from two rejections of signs by the Planning Commission were continued until Aug. 28 by the City Council on Monday night.

In the case of Fred Sahadi who had been turned down in his request for a 58-foot pole sign for the PruneYard, the continuation came on Sahadi's request. He was unable to be present.

In the case of the sign appeal for the new Gold Key furniture outlet, the continuation was granted so that the entire Council could hear the case. Councilman Dean Chamberlin is on vacation and was absent on Monday.

In both situations, the proposed signs are larger than have been allowed in the city.

TIRELESS WORKER FOR COMMUNITY

Death takes Sam Cava, 77, leader in city's early growth period

Funeral services were conducted Saturday for Sam P. Cava, one of the prime movers in the development of Campbell in the 1950's and early 1960's who died on August 11 at the age of 77.

In 1956, Cava, who had suffered a heart attack in 1952, and was semi-retired, assumed the position of manager of the Campbell Chamber of Commerce, which was struggling at the time to keep afloat. Under Cava's energetic leadership, the Chamber of Commerce became a major factor in the city's progress. Cava was credited with obtaining 23 industries to locate in Campbell.

In 1958, the City Council named Cava annexation coordinator and research analyst, in addition to his Chamber duties. In this position Cava was instrumental in combating San Jose's aggressive annexation policies and in expanding the city limits of Campbell.

In November 1960, Cava was honored at a testimonial dinner sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, which was attended by more than 350 people. Tribute was paid him at the time for the tremendous civic job he had accomplished since 1956 and a gift of appreciation from his fellow citizens was presented to him and Mrs. Cava.

Two years later, in 1962, Cava suffered a stroke that left him speechless and partially paralyzed. He was only able to move around with an aid of a cane or in a wheel chair for the past 10 years.

But despite this physical handicap, Cava, with the aid of his wife, kept in touch with friends and the activities of the community of Campbell.

Cava had also served as chairman of the Old Settlers Day celebration since 1955 and was responsible for the success of that event, especially from the musical point of view, for he was a musician.

SAM CAVA
---dies at 77

He learned to play the trumpet and baritone as a boy at the famous Jane Adams' Hull House in Chicago. He was a long-time member of the musician's union and often recalled his World War I services when he played in the famous band directed by Sousa. He had his own orchestra for a time and also conducted the Southern Pacific Co. band for many years.

At the time he suffered a major heart attack in 1952, Cava was a cannery executive directing nine plants.

He had settled in Hollister after World War I with his wife, Christine, whom he had married in 1918 in San Jose. Cava became manager of a cannery in Hollister and in 1927 moved to Salinas in the same capacity and 10 years later moved to San Jose.

Cava was born in Piane Crati in Italy and came to Chicago with friends when he was seven years old, and lived there for 23 years. He sold newspapers on the streets, learned English and dropped out of school at age 12 to work in a bank as an interpreter. Later he worked on the railroad, rising from water-boy to roadmaster.

Cava was a member of the San Jose Elks Lodge and an honorary member of the Campbell Chamber of Commerce and Campbell Rotary Club. He also belonged to the Musicians Union and to American Legion Post No. 399.

Surviving are his wife, Christine, three daughters, Mrs. Sarah Crane, Mrs. Louise Rodolfo and Mrs. Gloria De-Vincenzi, all of San Jose, and one son, Dr. Emil Cava of Las Vegas. He also leaves two brothers, Anthony Cava of Sunnyvale and August Cava of Salinas and eight grandchildren.

Rosary services were Friday at 8 p.m. at Lima-Salmon-Erickson Cathedral Chapel in San Jose and services were conducted at the chapel on Saturday morning and at St. Mary's Church in San Jose where a Mass of the Resurrection was celebrated.

Editorial

A valuable guide

The city's capital improvements program through 1977-78 has been compiled by City Manager Bob Stephens and submitted to the City Council.

The preparing of the six-year capital improvement program is done each year as the city staff attempts to develop future city projects on a priority basis.

The city manager explains the purpose in his covering letter—"realizing that conditions and priorities change, this program should be viewed only as a guide and not as a commitment to spend. If Federal revenue sharing comes to pass the Council may wish to reschedule or substitute projects. This recommended program provides the basis on which to continue Campbell's orderly and planned progress."

These projections have been done on an annual basis for a number of years and it has been interesting, as the years go by, to observe a change in priorities.

On the other hand, many priorities that were established in prior projections are now in the process of becoming realities.

Despite the fact that the thinking may change from year to year as to what project should be given the top priority, these reports, in our opinion, play an important part in the orderly development program for this city.

It is obvious that there will be changes in future projections as there have been in past ones.

As a case in point, this year's six-year projection has eliminated approximately $1 million for the acquisition of the rights-of-way needed in the development of the Highway 17—Campbell Avenue interchange.

According to the city manager's report, that was deleted on the basis of debt service capability of the city.

The six-year program suggests the expenditure of $273,250 in the category of "fire protection"; $270,000 for minor street projects; $2,224,000 for major street projects; $924,965 for the library; $1,101,735 for parks; $179,400 for storm drains; $47,000 for traffic signals; $175,000 for undergrounding utilities; $39,600 for the service center; and $75,000 for the city hall.

The program breaks the projects down on a year-to-year basis extending through the 1977-78 fiscal year and indicates that a total of $8,319,843 would be expended on the various projects, if the program is followed as submitted.

An interesting phase of the report is that, except for a total of $226,425 for fire service and $710,000 for parks, the other projects can be funded from known resources.

To fund the $936,425 for fire and parks, a bond issue would be needed, the report indicates.

The six-year capital improvements program also specifies that $2,995,958 including $1,254,100 for the city hall, are already under way.

This projection by the city staff illustrates vividly that the City of Campbell has now become "big business."

The report shows that $1,387,775 is proposed to be spent during the present fiscal year with $719,000 of this total going for major street improvements and $276,250 for parks. Minor streets call for $145,000 and $75,000 is earmarked for completing the engineering wing at the city hall.

The report also projects the income for the city year by year extending through 1977-78.

For example, the property tax during 1972-73 is expected to bring the city $862,000 and the sales tax $800,000. The total income from all sources is estimated to be $2,377,000, excluding special gas tax money and bond redemption taxes.

The projection calls for a total income for the city in 1977-78 of $3,018,000 (excluding gas tax and bond redemption) with the property tax pegged at $1,050,000 and the sales tax at $1,075,000.

The city staff is well aware that these "projections" are educated guesses. But they do serve a useful purpose in the planning of the needs of this community.

Obviously there are many factors that can vary conditions in the future, just as has been the case in the past.

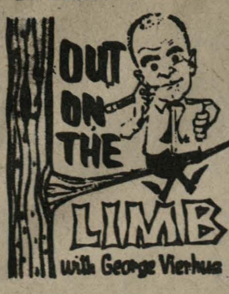
For example, we doubt that the capital improvement program of five yeras ago considered the impact that the PruneYard and Towers would make on the city both from the sales tax and property tax point of view.

But the six-year program serves a useful purpose.

It does provide, as the city manager points out, a basic guide, even if the priorities are bound to change.

MORE ABOUT



of you with extra long memories, may recall that when St. Thomas of Canterbury was formed with the parish seat in the San Tomas Aquino area, we submitted that the powers-that-be in the archdiocese had their countries and their Saint Thomas' a trifle mixed up.

There was, for example, a San Tomas Aquino Creek, a San Tomas Aquino Road and a San Tomas Aquino Expressway wending their way through the parish.

So the parish was named Saint Thomas of Canterbury.

We haven't the vaguest idea in the first place why the "San Tomas area" was named after Saint Thomas Aquinas (San Tomas Aquino), an Italian scholastic philosopher whose philosophy is even quoted today.

But St. Thomas of Canterbury was an entirely different character.

He was the famous "Beckett," who was murdered in the Cantebury cathedral in England about 100 years before Aquinas was around.

But that is really not our point.

It is just part of the history of St. Lucy's.

We thought, at the time, the wheels of the archdiocese had missed the historic boat when they labeled the new parish St. Thomas of Canterbury.

And we still do.

-0-

BUT REALLY THAT HAS nothing to do with the silver jubilee of St. Lucy's that will take place in October.

An entire week is going to be set aside for the celebration.

It will begin with Archbishop Joseph T. McGucken celebrating the Mass of Thanksgiving on the first Sunday and will wind up with the "October Fest" the following Saturday and Sunday with a barbeque, carnival and entertainment on the parish grounds.

During the week there will be special events, including a Chamber of Commerce monthly meeting in Kennelly Hall on Thursday and a fun-filled program, entitled "All in the Parish," scheduled for Friday night.

Indications are that it will be a tremendous event marking the silver jubilee of the parish.

A lot has happened and there have been many changes in this community and St. Lucy's since 1947.

Some of you may have some information of historical value pertaining to St. Lucy's prior to 1947 in Campbell.

On the other hand, maybe it is better to start with 1947.

THE PASSING OF SAM Cava has left a void in our life that will be difficult to fill.

You see, there can only be one SAM CAVA.

It was our privilege to have known Sam and his wonderful wife, Christine, intimately for more than 16 years.

Sam passed away last week. He was 77 years old when he died and for the past 10 years he had been paralyzed on his right side from a severe stroke and he had lost the power of speech.

But during those last 10 years he had been acutely aware of what was going on and, although he could not communicate directly, his love for Campbell and his interest in this community was manifest by his vibrancy that no stroke could ever curtail.

Mere words alone cannot express the feelings that your editor and his Dorothy had for their Sam. It was something very special.

And we know that Sam and his Christine knew that.

There is very little we can say here now that we haven't said before. For that we are very thankful.

Sam was an avid reader and probably more so during the last 10 years of his life than for all the years before.

Naturally he devoured The Press page by page.

Back in June, 1971, after Sam and his Christine had paid one of their periodical visits to our office, we devoted a portion of this column to our friend, Sam.

Christine told us later that Sam was oh, so proud of what we had written in our column about him.

In retrospect it seems such a small thing.

Yet do you mind if we repeat it this week?

-0-

OUT-ON-THE-LIMB (June 30, 1971)...."Back in the '50's and early '60's when this community had not quite yet gotten off the ground, there was one man who put his entire heart and soul into making Campbell a better place in which to live and work.

"That man was Sam Cava.

"Sam was a highly successful businessman, having been involved in the fruit canning and packing business for years in the Valley.

"He was actually taking it easy when he became interested in Campbell through one of the markets in town.

"But from 1956 into the early '60's, Campbell's problems became Sam's only concern.

"And, man, how he worked at it.

"He had been professionally a musician and had played in Sousa's band in the Army.

"He always carried his musician's union card and loved to pick up his horn and play in the union's marching band in the Old Settlers' Day parade.

"CAVA USED TO ARrange for the parade each year and loved to schedule as many bands as possible.

"He would work tirelessly making all the arrangements for the big parade, puffing on his big cigar.

"His fatigue would only show when the parade finally would get under way.

"Then he would droop a little.

"But only briefly. He recovered fast.

"He would put down his cigar, pick up his horn, and join his buddies in the musician's union band.

"Sam's friends were legend. They came from all walks of life.

"It was always refreshing and often surprising, when one would hear, "Sure, I know Sam Cava well."

"It could be heard from a banker in San Francisco.

"Or from a musician in a Las Vegas night spot.

"We know.

"We heard it in both spots."

-0-

...."SAM SUFFERED a severe stroke about eight years ago and has been paralyzed on his right side since that time. He also lost his power of speech at the time of his stroke.

"But he has not lost his love for Campbell, or his interest in this community. He continues to be an avid reader, and keeps abreast of current events.

"And he loves to visit his beloved community and see the changes that have taken place during the past decade. And there have been many.

"We imagine he is recalling, as his eyes brighten up, those early days when his Italian temper would flare when some of his big-shot friends from the outside world would describe Campbell as that "dirty little cannery town." They did not have the vision of Sam.

"Campbell has come a long way and Sam realizes it. His pride glows, even if he can't tell you about it.

"And, of course, one of our favorite people has always been Christine Cava, who uncomplainingly, despite the fact that she, too, has had health problems, cheerfully and devotedly takes care of her Sam.

"And our Sam, too.

"Or did you already guess that."

On the agenda also is an application by Richard B. Millen to expand the original zone change application for the Sunsweet property to take in additional property.

The Commission members last meeting indicated that any action on the zone change for this key downtown property will be continued until after a study session has been held on the matter, taking in its possible effect on the downtown core and proposed streets, including the planned "south loop" and parking facilities.

Other items on the agenda include an application by James Foug & Associates for P-D zoning to modify an existing building at 850 W. In a previous meeting, a bid of $7,587.28 had been submitted by Penn Electrical Contractors for the job. However, the firm had made an obvious error in calculations and had subsequently requested that the bid be withdrawn. The Council approved the withdrawal and awarded the contract to Rosendin, the next low bidder.

The Council also authorized the sale of bonds totalling $15,920 for Local Improvement District No. 22 on Virginia Ave. to Mason Brothers of Oakland, the low bidder with an interest rate of 5.9762%.

WV Board adopts budget

West Valley College trustees recently adopted a final general fund budget for 1972-73 totaling $20,908,638.

The budget reflects a lowering of West Valley's tax rate by three-tenths of one cent.

The two biggest expenditures in the budget are $8.9 million for capital outlay and $6.1 million for instruction, which includes salaries for the certificated and classified personnel.

The capital outlay expenditures include final payments on the business education-student personnel-administration, library, humanities-fine arts and physical education complexes, all under construction at the Saratoga campus. It also includes money for purchase of two remaining public parcels of the Mission Campus site, construction of the warehouse - maintenance complex, initial fees for the law enforcement complex and purchase of equipment for three of the Saratoga buildings.

In addition trustees adopted a special reserve fund budget totaling $1,457,784, a student union operations budget totaling $223,019, and a campus center building (HUD) budget totaling $85,140.

The action adopting the budget followed a five minute public hearing in which no one from the audience rose to speak.

In other action the board:

--Accepted a portrait of Dr. Wallace W. Hall, founding president of West Valley, donated by Dr. and Mrs. Hall. The portrait now hangs in the student campus center, named "The Hall", on the Saratoga campus.

--Approved creation of a full-time photographer for the college, adopted a job description and salary range.

--Approved revision of governing board policies and procedures regarding supplementary certificated salaries for adult education classes offered by West Valley.

--Deferred action on lease agreements for instructional facilities until the Aug. 17 meeting.

--Approved an agreement with the State Dept. of Real Estate for continued financial assistance to the college's real estate program in an amount not to exceed $1,100.

--Approved the following personnel matters: Hired Mrs. Kathleen Kluetmeier to teach half-time in the licensed vocational nursing program for 1972-73; promoted Mrs. Judith LeRoy to typist clerk II in admissions and records; and approved the transfers of Miss Deberah Wooley to the continuing education office and Mrs. Ann Parbury, from continuing education, to replace Miss Wooley in the Campbell office of language arts-social science.

Council upholds Commission in denial

Despite a plea by William H. Briggs, who traced the complicated background of the situation that originated in 1963, the City Council on Monday night upheld the decision of the Planning Commission refusing an extension of time in the development schedule of an office-apartment complex at Hamilton and San Tomas Expressway.

Briggs explained that the reason that an extension had not been applied before the time schedule for the development had expired last fall was because the property was in the process of changing hands. After a series of ownership changes over the years, the parcel was again to be under his control within a few weeks, he said.

He said that it was imperative to get Council approval of the extension because the financing for the 192-unit complex plus the 90,000 square foot office was dependent on the original plans and density.

The rejection by the Planning Commission, Art Kee, planning director, explained was primarily based on the high density that the 1963 plan called for and that the current city policy calls for a much lower density than what was in effect in 1963.

Briggs emphasized that density alone was not the answer in these matters. He said that the project his firm had planned would be an attractive one and one that both the builder and city could take pride. "Barrack-like structures," he added, "might meet the density requirements but would not satisfy anyone."

Councilman Ralph Doetsch moved to allow a 90-day extension, specifying that construction would be started in that time. There was no second. The motion then to uphold the Planning Commission was approved.

OTHER ACTIONS

In other actions, the Council approved a mini-car ride activity at the Campbell Shopping Center, Aug. 18-27 and also approved a live entertainment permit for Cisco's at 723 W. Hamilton in the Riverside Shopping Center.

Approval was also given the First United Methodist Church to hold a flea market on Sept. 16 at the Campbell Shopping Center but did not waive the business license fee as requested.

Two claims for personal injuries against the city were rejected and referred to the insurance carrier. One incident occurred at Rincon Park and the other at Campbell Park.

COUNCILMEN ASK

Under individual councilmen reports, Councilman Norm Paul questioned Bill Wren, public works director, as to when the street signs were to be changed and made consistent as had been requested previously. Wren indicated the survey would be completed by the next meeting.

Paul also learned from City Manager Bob Stephens that the mutual aid agreement with Central Fire District should be ready soon and would include modifications to the pact with San Jose to avoid duplications.

In answer to Paul's question on the status of the LID for Dell Ave., Wren submitted that the project should be ready by early spring.

Councilman Rusty Hammer questioned the delay in the landscape architect plans for Rincon Park, pointing out that three months had already passed. In the same vein, the Council held up payment to Arutunian-Kinney Associates, the landscape firm, for a claim for consultation fees for development of the neighborhood park at Coventry School.

The fee submitted was for $1420.99.

Wren said he was concerned also and that he would request that the architect appear in person at the next meeting to answer all the questions on a first-hand basis.

INTERCHANGE

The Council received the recommendation from the Planning Commission of what factors should be covered in a study of the Campbell Ave. Highway 17 interchange possibilities. Action was delayed on the matter until it is learned definitely if a federal grant was available for the study. It was estimated that the study would cost approximately $25,000.

Mississippi memories revived

You're not going crazy if you think you see a steamboat on Hamilton Avenue.

In fact, you're half right.

The Delta Queen Car Wash on Hamilton near Bascom is designed to look like a Mississippi steamboat - a modern-day version of Mark Twain's dream come true.

The wash brings together the travel of two eras, sending the modern sleek automobiles through the quaintly designed building with its portholes, old lamppoles and distinct concrete groundwork.

The waiting room, adjoining the main 'boat', has become a museum of yesteryear with an actual submarine door installed in the side of the boat, a real old-fashioned pot-belly stove, a genuine whiskey still, old milk buckets, a bread rack, and a "claw machine." A large sign offers shoe shines for 55 cents. Incorporated in the waiting room is a flower stand and a gift and jewelry stop.

Somewhere along the way, Frank Dorsa and Leonard Vella, partners in the venture, got the idea that a car wash didn't have to look ugly.

The two are managers of the Lark Avenue Car Wash in Los Gatos. Because of their efforts, it grew from a struggling business to the car wash with the highest volume of business in the county.

The 'launching' of the Delta Queen marks another milestone in their business association. Their work in Los Gatos gave them both the dream of finding a site and then building a car wash themselves, using the methods they had learned at Lark, but making their dream car wash an imaginative and flexible project.

Mayor William Podgorsek of Campbell broke a bottle of Santa Clara Valley champagne over the Delta Queen on Wednesday, August 9, to launch her in true marine style.

The mayor's ritual didn't send the Delta Queen bounding out to sea, but did make official the start of a new and innovative idea in car wash design.

A LITTLE DIFFERENT

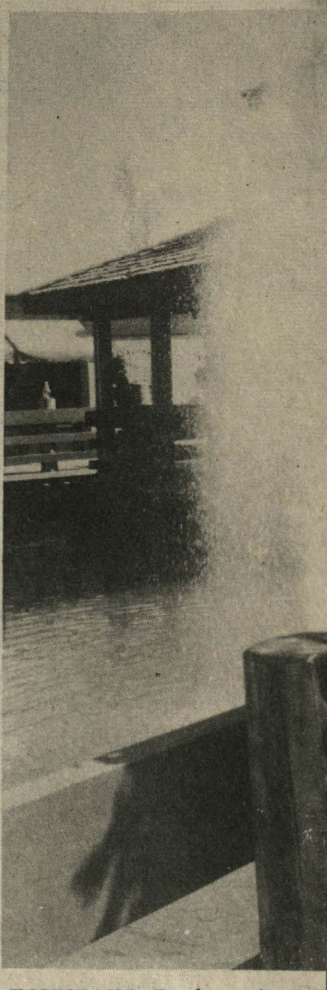
But it isn't all just fancy design. The car wash equipment is unique. It uses a six-memory bank computer and is able to wash pickups and vans as well as regular-size cars. The water is softened for maximum effectiveness and then reclaimed for another use in a 5000 gallon reclaim system.

The distinctive stacks also serve a practical purpose as vents for the equipment housed on the second floor of the boat.

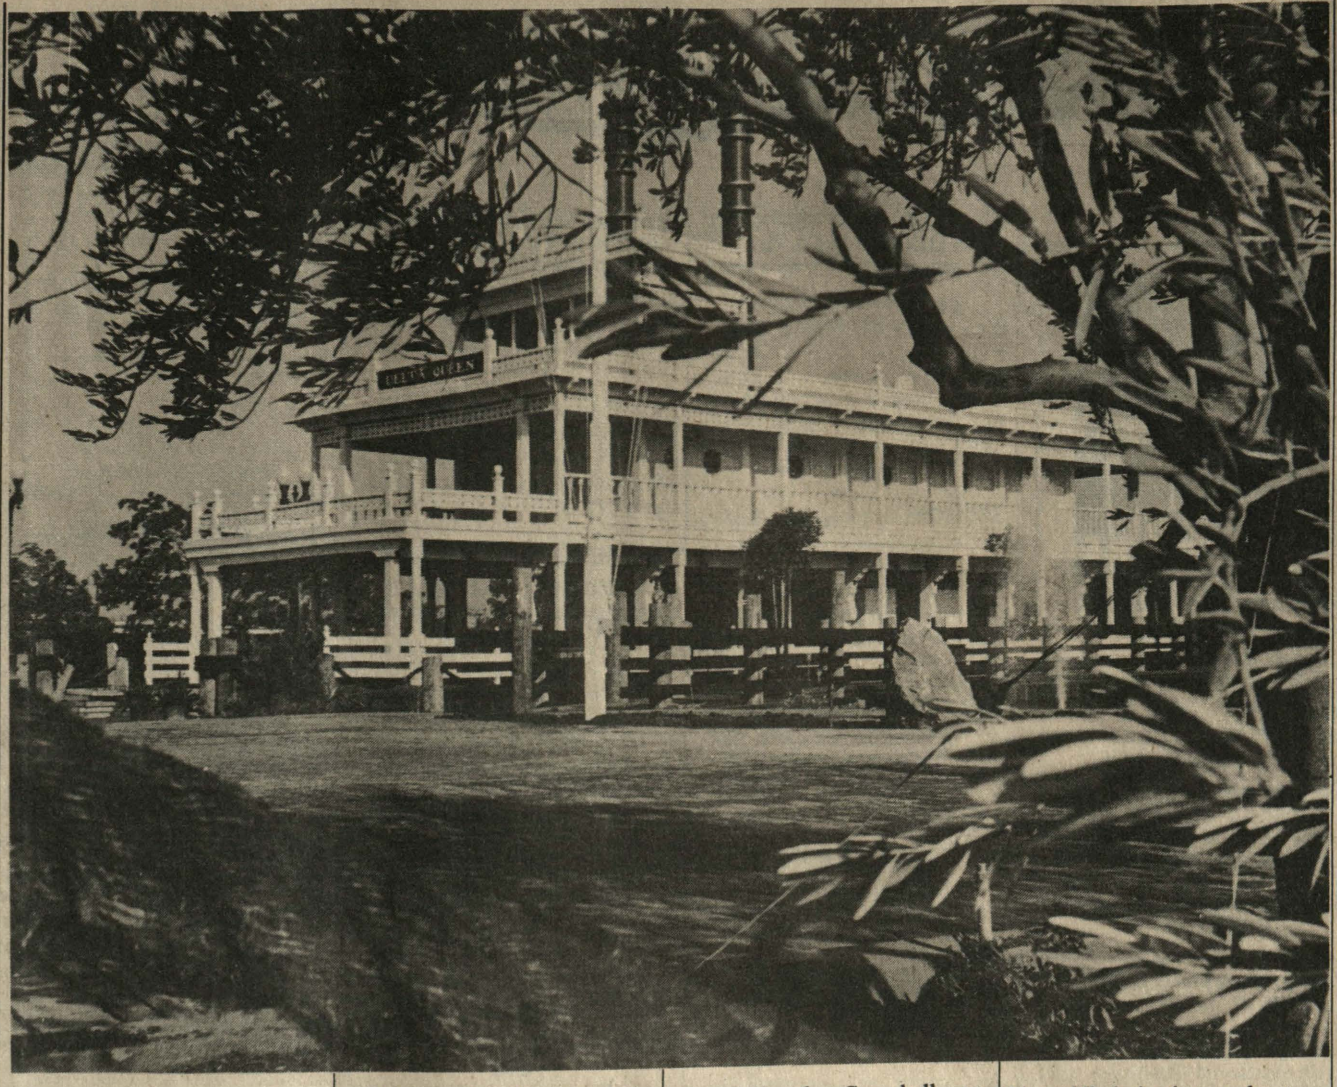
The wash is encircled by a small moat and overlooks the trickling Los Gatos Creek. Ducks and tules were donated to the adjoining pond to contribute to the river atmosphere.

The Delta Queen Car Wash opens this week to the public. The hours will be from 6 a.m. to 9 p.m. seven days a week.

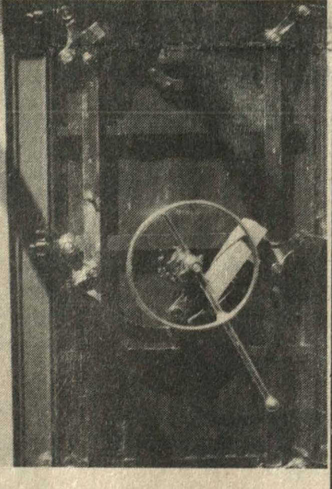
In full-scale operation, the wash will bring something of the riverboat dock feeling to the Campbell community, without ever being on the waterfront.



FOUNTAIN---Ducks swim in the pond next to the Delta Queen Car Wash. The fountain "sprouting up" from within the pond adds an extra touch of elegance to the old-time design of the establishment.



ANCHORS AWEIGH — The Delta Queen is Frank Dorsa's and Leonard Vella's new idea in car wash design. Opening this week, the Campbell car wash has been made to look like a Mississippi steamboat.



WAITING ROOM — One attraction of the waiting room at the Delta Queen Car Wash is this authentic submarine door next to a porthole looking into the 'ship.'

FAIR CONTESTANT---Russ Colman Baker of Campbell is one of the contestants in the Senior Citizen Talent Contest at the 28th Annual Santa Clara County Fair, Aug. 18—27. Besides playing guitar and harmonica, the retired Civil Service truck driver also composes songs. All oldsters over 65 will be admitted to the Fairgrounds free on Senior Citizens' Day, Aug. 21. Other activities scheduled for Senior Citizens' Day are Senior King and Senior Queen Contests.

Fair opens Friday: Fun set for 10 days

Fair time will be fun time at the 28th annual Santa Clara County Fair from August 18-27.

The Fairgrounds will be open on weekdays at noon and at 10 a.m. on Saturdays and Sundays. The gates close at 11:00 p.m. each night.

TRADITIONAL FESTIVITIES

It just wouldn't be the same old fair without the carnival attractions, livestock show and reigning beauties.

There is fun in the flashing lights and wild rides of the carnival area. Exotic names from the thrill ride business will be provided by Foley and Burk Carnival. Rides for all ages are offered with thrills galore.

Highlight of the Junior Livestock Division is the annual auction to be held on the last Saturday of the fair, August 26. For many months members of County Future Farmers of America (FFA) and 4-H Clubs have been raising animals, learning to produce food for the table. This is the day they realize the fruits of their labor.

Reigning over all the Fair festivities is Miss Santa Clara County -- Queen of the Fair, Carol Anderson of San Jose, and her court of 10 princesses. They will act as official hostesses.

GRANDSTAND SHOWS

Grandstand shows will also provide fun for more than 400,000 expected fairgoers.

Polack Brothers Circus kicks off the grandstand shows with matinee and evening performances for the first three days of the Fair.

Auto racing fans will be able to watch two nights of midget auto racing on Monday and Tuesday, August 21 and 22. The Bay Cities Racing Association will sponsor the speedway activities.

Two nights of "Charreada," a Mexican rodeo presented by Association de Charros-Rancho Allegre is next on the bill on August 23 and 24.

During the final three days of the Fair, comedian Jerry Van Dyke will headline the Grandstand Professional Stage Show. Backed by the comedy and song of Barbara Hanna, the juggling of Harry and Peggy Baker and the unique choreography of the Duane Dancers, Van Dyke will give two performances daily.

Harness racing will be offered on Wednesday through Saturday nights.

There will also be pony racing on Saturday afternoon, August 26, and a slam-bang Destruction Derby on the final Sunday afternoon.

ART AND MUSIC

County artists will display original oil paintings, watercolors, jewelry, sculptures and ceramics which they entered in competition for prize money. Art works are in the Pavilion Patio.

Fair Family Park will be the fun site for country and western music, Western bands and vocalists, competing for cash prizes, will perform in a three-day jamboree, August 18-20.

Area radio disc jockeys will be featured in the D.J. Milking Contest on August 24, aiming to fill soft drink bottles instead of the traditional milking bucket.

POTPOURRI

"Flower Power" will be portrayed with fantastic flora frivolously and flirtatiously floating from floor to fence in the floriculture exhibits.

The home economics offering will feature exotic cooking demonstrations, along with a Russian - Spanish Gaszpacho and hangover breakfast on the last Saturday of the Fair.

Careers Unlimited, a new program sponsored by the Fair Association Industrial Participation Committee, teams local industry with San Jose Regional Occupational Training Center and Santa Clara County Office of Education for live lecture-demonstrations of vocational skills taught in the county.

A total of 250 commercial exhibitors have bought space at the Fair.

Amateur talent will be highlighted throughout the run of the Fair.

SPECIAL DAYS

Both young and old are honored with special days at the Fair. Senior Citizen's Talent Contest and Senior King and Queen contest are some of the activities scheduled for Senior Citizen's Day, August 21, when everyone 65 and over is admitted free.

A freckles contest, mutt contest and tot rod races will all be part of the two Kid's days, beginning on August 22. It will look like Hallowe'en in August as the Kid's Day Costume Parade kicks off the festivities. Youngsters under 16 will be admitted free on both days.

There is even a special day for babies, as the Diaper Derby, Father's Diaper Pinning Contest and Mother's Calling Contest are all part of the August 26 schedule.

Mix in some cotton candy, a little strawberry shortcake and corn on the cob and you can readily see that Fair time is truly fun time.

Brochure on Y classes out

Fall activities are already scheduled by the San Jose YWCA, and now is the time to request brochures listing classes, clubs and events planned in Santa Clara Valley, including the Cambrian Center, where most Campbell area residents participate.

Requests should go to Cambrian Center, San Jose YWCA, 4343 Leigh Avenue, San Jose 95124; phone 269-7534.

The San Jose YWCA is a United Fund Agency open to all women and girls; some activities are open to men and boys as associates. Also, so that young mothers may participate, nursery service is available during most daytime activities for which a nominal fee is assessed.

At the Cambrian Center, fall schedule calls for a woman's club, Cambrianettes, meeting on Tuesday mornings; a "Worry Clinic", which is open to all women without charge; a public affairs committee session; and a long list of classes for both adults and youth. A busy tennis schedule is included.

The Cambrian Center of the San Jose YWCA provided summer program for over 400 young people this summer, according to Ruthadele Sarter. In addition, numerous activities were conducted for adults.

RECYCLING

Over 2000 pounds of tin and glass have been delivered to the Hayward recycling depot from the West Valley Progressive Seniors recycling center.

Mark Shattuck, earning his Eagle Scout award, is one of the people who has been collecting bottles, cans and aluminum products for the center.

Anyone with recyclable items can leave them in front of the Senior Center at 41 W. Rincon at any time.

OMA DARLENE POSS

Oma Poss to wed

Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Poss, 88 South Milton Avenue, announced the engagement of their daughter, Oma Darlene to William (Bill) Morgan of Stockton at a recent family celebration.

The announcement was made at a party for the Poss's at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Josephy Bradley, 53 S. Milton, as they celebrated their own wedding anniversary.

Morgan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Morgan of Stockton and a graduate of Delta College. Oma is assistant manager for a local store and is a member of Rainbow Girls No. 237 and C.S.F. She graduated from Campbell High School in June.

An October wedding date has been set by the young couple. The setting will be the Assembly of God Church in Campbell.

Morning ceremony unites Daniel and Kathleen

A midweek morning ceremony at St. Lucy's Church was the setting chosen by Kathleen Elaine Harville of Campbell for her wedding to Lt. Daniel Christian Roland Braga, of France.

Kathleen, who attended local schools and graduated from San Jose State College, spent her junior year in Aix-en-Provence, France, where she met Daniel.

For her wedding, she donned a gown of her own design, made in France where she is currently teaching English in the high school system. Made of white organdy in an empire style, it featured a high neckline, long transparent sleeves and panels of Chantilly lace in a coat-dress style.

It was trimmed with three dimensional organdy and pearl flowers at the waist and down the front. The floor length veil was trimmed with the same lace.

Patricia Lilley of San Jose was honor attendent. Patricia's gown was an old-fashioned empire waist style made up in a wild rose print. Kathleen and Patricia both carried bouquets of pink baby roses and baby's breath.

Douglas Harville gave his daughter's hand in marriage, while her brothers, Mark and James, provided music and ushering duties. Daniel's parents, Monsieur and Madame Roland Braga of Pont-a-Mausson, France, and his brother, Denis, and sister, Nadine, journeyed here for the ceremonies. Denis served his brother as best man, while Nadine took charge of the guest book.

Reverend Henri Boisvert conducted the double-ring ceremony, after which guests were greeted in the Harville garden by Mrs. Douglas Harville and watched the newlyweds cut a three tiered cake before leaving on a honeymoon to Carmel.

Later this month they will embark for Belfort, France, where the bride will resume her teaching duties, and the groom, a graduate of Saint-Cyr Military Academy, is stationed in the French Army.

MRS. DANIEL CHRISTIAN ROLAND BRAGA

Local Explorer program catches fire

by Tony Dirksen

Boyhood 'fireman' dreams never die for some people.

For six youths in the Campbell Fire Department Explorer program, the vision of a hook and ladder is still in their future -- more alive than ever before.

The boys spend 15 hours a month learning care and maintenance and handling procedures for the hose, first aid, how to handle a fire situation, and how to operate emergency generators.

Although insurance policies keep the boys from doing much at a real blaze, they have helped the firemen in a controlled fire situation.

The boys are between 14 and 18 years old. Ken Reed, 15, Chief Explorer, says that the program, "presents kids with the idea that firemen do more than put out fires."

Ken has been with the program for eight months now. The Explorer program in Campbell has been going for 18 months.

Garry Salmon, a Campbell firefighter, has been with the program since it began. "These kids are eager," he says. "It's a great age group to work with."

There are only three other 'young firemen' groups in the Bay Area - two Explorer programs, at Saratoga and Daly City, and a cadet program in San Jose.

On occasion, the groups will get together. Campbell challenged Saratoga in a hose contest in which the boys tried to connect three 50-foot hoses and then run and hit a target 170 feet away. In one practice session the week before the contest, the boys did it all in just 17 seconds.

In another upcoming program, they will go to the Stevens Creek Station to learn forestry fire techniques.

Most of these boys signed up through a high school counselor, but Salmon says that anyone can join the program.

Plans are in the offing to give Explorers the chance of becoming volunteer firemen at age 18. Under the present setup, Campbell men cannot become volunteers until age 21.

Anyone interested in joining the program can call the Campbell Fire Department at 485 W. Sunnyoaks on Mondays through Fridays between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. Interested youths should talk to either Rick Kincaid or Garry Salmon.

HITTING THE TARGET--- Campbell Explorers practice for their hose contest with the Saratoga Explorers. In just 17 seconds, four boys connected the hose, ran 150 feet, and hit the target - an old, badly beaten car. In the contest, the boys will have to hit a three-foot by three-foot square placed four feet off the ground.

GETTING READY --- Campbell's young fireman Explorers prepare to connect three 50-foot pieces of hose to hit a target 170 feet away. Manning the hydrant is Jack Robinson. On the hoses are Rory Lucas, Bob Morgan and Ken Reed.

Computers control traffic

Inexpensive computers, called "minicomputers" by State highway engineers, will control traffic signals at intersections on California's highways in the near future and are expected to reduce accidents, delays, and even the smog to which delays contribute.

An initial order for 50 such computers will be placed in the next few weeks.

Traffic actuated signal controllers, whether conventional or minicomputer, scan an intersection about 20 times a second and pose the question to themselves: Should the present signal be changed?

Vehicle detectors below the pavement surface permit the controller to know how many vehicles are waiting at, or approaching, an intersection; their rates of speed; if left-turn lanes are occupied; and if vehicles are waiting in the intersection to complete a left turn.

W.V. Colts continue their winning ways

by Dottie Mitchell

Strong pitching and a devastating offense boosted the West Valley Colt League All Stars to the North Regional crown last weekend on the Los Gatos High diamond.

The opening game of the tourney saw West Valley meeting Provo-Orem, Utah. The hosts were deemed visitors by the toss of the coin. Jack Freeland (from Prospect, but representing Campbell) was the West Valley pitcher. Brett Vroman, a mere 6'11", was the opposing hurler.

It was a fast 1-2-3 "you're out" for WV in the top of the first. Six feet eleven on a pitcher's elevated mound looks mighty big and mighty close.

Provo's turn at bat saw Tim Anderson and Mike Sagers scoring on consecutive base hits after two outs. However, Freeland got tough after the opening jitters and those two runs on three hits in the first were all the Provo group was to gain from Jack.

In WV's second inning, George Hahn was walked to lead off. Dan Bongiovanni (Blackford) sacrificed him to second base and Tom Guardino's (Campbell) drive to shortstop and the throw to first scored George.

In the third inning Freeland was walked, Mickey Rose (Camden) sacrificed and Bob Healy (also Camden) brought Jack home with a base hit. Healy went to second on the throw to home.

Gordy Hahn hit a long fly ball to right field and was credited with an RBI for Healy. Two scored in the third and that was the game: WV 3—Provo-Orem 2.

On Wednesday, Santa Cruz was downed by North East Seattle 8—4. Thursday Santa Cruz was sent home by Provo-Orem by a 5—1 score.

Friday WV was put down--but only by darkness. After five and one-half innings the game was called and completed Saturday noon.

Manager Wayne Mitchell's crew was in shock when they won the toss---this is NOT the usual---and no home team had won in this tournament so far.

N.E. Seattle led off with WV pitcher Mike Codiroli (Mitty High for Blackford) hitting the batter Jerry Cook. Cook was out at second on a fielder's choice putting Scott Tomlinson on first. Bill Bruce's walk put men on first and second.

Ron Bendzak got a base hit to score two RBI's. Codiroli got Scott Lee to strike out to end the inning.

Mike was to strike out a total of 13---seven in a row starting in the third with the bases loaded and no outs, followed by a perfect fourth and the first batter in the fifth.

WV scored one in the bottom of the first after Gordy Hahn hit a single and then scored on brother George's long double. The bottom of the second inning produced six runs on three hits and three walks. Guardino got a hit, Carlos Leglu (Blackford) doubled and Rose took an out at first to score Guardino.

Three walks in a row for Codiroli, Gary Lynn (Los Gatos) and Wes Toland (Camden) scored Leglu. Gordy Hahn's double scored the three on base and he advanced to third base on the throw to the plate. He was walked home on a balk.

In the fourth inning, Codiroli got a base hit, Toland walked, Gordy walked and George Hahn doubled for two RBI's. Bongiovanni's single scored both Hahns and he came home on Guardino's single. Final score: 12—2!

Provo-Orem sent N.E. Seattle scurrying home with a 9—1 victory on Saturday afternoon.

Sunday's payoff clash saw WV losing the toss, and again assuming the visitors' role in their own tournament. This did not prove to be a disadvantage, however, as WV went through three Provo-Orem hurlers in the top of the first frame.

Lynn opened the inning with a triple to right center. Toland followed with a single which scored Lynn. Gordy then singled and George drew a free pass. Bongiovanni lashed a two RBI base hit which brought about the exit of Brett Vroman, the side-winding giant, from the game.

The next pitcher to be subjected to the thunderous WV bats was Rand Boshard. He was greeted by an RBI single by Guardino, who was thrown out trying to advance on the throw to the plate. Leglu singled home another tally. That's seven batters, six hits, five runs, and one out in the first inning! Boshard was pulled and Kevin Davis came on to retire the side.

Joe Adragna, WV pitcher put his opposition down in order in the bottom of the first and that's pretty much the way it went the whole afternoon. Adragna gave up only four hits and no runs in going all seven innings. Joe also starred at bat---being walked all four times.

Other outstanding performances for WV were turned in by Gordy Hahn: two hits for five at bat, two for four; Gary Lynn; with a triple; Doug Teese, (L.G.) with a double; Bongiovanni with two RBI's and Tom Guardino, two for five with a double and two RBI's.

PLAY TONIGHT

West Valley again takes the field tonight to open their defense of the Western Division crown. Their game against Riverside is at 6 p.m. at Washington Park, Santa Clara. The second game at 8 will pair host Santa Clara and West Covina.

LONGER SWIM HOURS--- Don Bacci, head lifeguard at West Valley College's Saratoga swim pool, tells four regular visitors to the pool that swimming hours for the public have been extended. Through Sept. 1 the pool will be open from 1—4 p.m., Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 1—7 p.m., Tuesday and Thursday, and from 1—5 p.m. Saturday. The youngsters are left to right, Chucky Helton, Melchor Furgison, Danny Helton and Andy Helton.

New law creates consumer "spies"

New legislation provides a way out for people caught in the clutches of a dishonest garage.

Since the Automotive Repair Act went into effect last month, some resources are now available to consumers through the new State Bureau of Automotive Repair and Santa Clara County Department of Weights, Measures and Consumer Affairs.

If a consumer is stuck with an unfair deal, he can contact the Consumer Affairs office, who will send an undercover agent to go to the shop or station and investigate their selling practices.

After the Bureau has prosecuted the repairman, the consumer can sometimes sue for triple damages.

Some of the most frequent deceptions might include telling a customer he needs new ball joints in the wheels, tires and shock absorbers when he really doesn't, giving a complete tune-up when only a spark plug needs to be replaced, and giving wrong information about warranties that cover free parts but not free labor.

A sales trick of the dealer is the "warm puppy" routine. This typically involves a salesman who lets the consumer take the car home for the weekend to try it out. The consumer falls in love with the car and returns to the car lot.

The dealer tells him that the price has gone up since the customer took the car out or he denies the price he quoted earlier.

"Many people feel an obligation here," expressed Larry Sheahan, the County's coordinator of Consumer Affairs. "They should walk away but instead they buy the car they've fallen for because they feel a moral obligation."

Consumers can address any complaints regarding auto repair to the County Department of Weights, Measures and Consumer Affairs located on Mathew Street in Santa Clara.

Letters to the Editor

CATS LOST

Dear Editor:

On August 3, our two five month old, healthy kittens strayed four blocks from our home, were picked up by the Animal Control Center of the County Health Department and delivered to the Humane Society's Animal Shelter. We were greatly relieved when we heard this news from local citizens who had seen the kittens playing together and later when the pick up was confirmed by a phone call to the Health Department.

We were confident that the kittens would be safe and that we would have a chance to reclaim them. Much to our dismay, this relief was short-lived, when we learned from the Humane Society, on the morning of the 4th, that the kittens had been disposed of the very day they were delivered, well within 12 hours from the time they had strayed from our porch.

During a lengthy discussion with the supervisor of the Humane Society, we were informed that the county ordinance requiring that pets be retained three days is not always adhered to even though they publicly advertise such a policy.

We also contacted the President of the Board of Directors of the County Humane Society, who was genuinely disheartened by the report of this irresponsible act and assured us that he would look into the matter.

This entire chain of events has raised two very fundamental questions: (1) How is it possible that the Humane Society can flagrantly violate a county ordinance and not be held accountable for these violations? (2) Why does the Humane Society hypocritically embrace and advertise a three-day retention policy that they do not intend to enforce and have indiscriminately violated?

We think the Board of Directors has a clear obligation to correct this situation and once again make their organization responsible for the protection and humane treatment as well as the proper disposal of lost pets.

We have sent a step-by-step eye witness account of the kittens' activities during the short period that they were away from our home to the President of the Board of Directors and are confident that they will launch an investigation which will attempt to answer this cruel injustice and will either demand that the county ordinance be adhered to, arrive at a new, specific, well publicized policy on animal retention or change the name of the Humane Society.

Aside from the loss of two pets, we find it hard to believe that the Humane Society would allow itself to be placed in the position of setting such a poor example for young pet owners.

Is this another example where we as parents must make a vain attempt to explain to our children, that although there are laws that govern individuals in our society, there are people and members of seemingly responsible organizations who violate these laws and are not held accountable for their actions?

We fully realize that uncontrolled pets are a real urban problem, and that there are hundreds of cats in search of good homes. The Humane Society did offer to replace our kittens. It saddens and confuses us to think that the Humane Society personnel assumes it would be that easy to right the injust disposal of a little orange kitten named Tiger and his small calico sister, Lilly.

In the meantime, how do you explain this sad situation to three little children who loved two small kittens?

A YOUNG MAN SPEAKS OUT

Dear Sir:

The condition of Vasona Lake concerns me deeply. I have been there recently and found the condition of the water is unsatisfactory. I have seen dead fish floating in the upper area and in the lower area, nearer the lake itself, a dead duck.

The fragrance of the water and surrounding area is not that of the beautiful lake that once was, but that of a swampland. Near the train house, under the tracks, debris was piled and the water had a cloud that looked and felt like oil.

In the area where the water goes into the lake from the culverts, there were empty cans and assorted garbage, the water had a thick film over it like thin glue. The odor in that area was not very pleasant, either.

The lake was drained once before, why was it not properly drained and cleaned before allowing the water to run back in?

It seems to me, that with all of our advanced technology and super computers, that we could devise a way to clean the lake without ruining the beauty of it. Personally, I would rather spend the afternoon by a clean peaceful lake, rather than a week on the Moon.

Frankly, most of us will never go to the moon, and there should be a place for us.

If our space program is using too much money, so that there isn't enough left for our park system, maybe the park should charge admission, in order to hire a crew to clean it.

Please help us enjoy our surroundings, before we don't have any surroundings to enjoy.

Respectfully,
James A. Marvin

PLAUDITS FOR HOSPITAL

Dear Editor:

On June 7 this year I was a patient at Los Gatos Community Hospital for three days. From June 20th until June 29th I was a patient at one of San Jose's largest hospitals (9 very hot days, and the hospital was not equipped with air conditioning of any kind.)

On August 2nd thru 7th I was again a patient at Los Gatos Community Hospital.

The service, food, accommodations, rooms at Los Gatos were excellent, the nurses aides, etc. cannot be commended highly enough on their care, friendliness and overall attitude toward the patient.

This letter is mainly just to remind the people of our community that I believe we have one of the finest hospitals in Santa Clara County.

FAIR PLANS---Industry participation in the 28th Annual Santa Clara County Fair, Aug. 18-27, is discussed in a planning session at the Fairgrounds by (left to right) Ron Clendenen, head of the San Jose Regional Occupational Training Center; Fred DuBridge, Chairman of the Industrial Participation Committee; Ken Casteel of Campbell, Vocational Education Director for Santa Clara County and Fred Becker, Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co., representative on the committee.

Fair offers vocational training show

Industries who utilize vocational training in their operations will be involved in the Santa Clara County Fair's Industrial Participation Program, according to Fred DuBridge, chairman of the Industrial Participation Committee. "This will add a new dimension to this year's Fair," he said.

In order to accomplish this, the committee in cooperation with the Fair Association has set up a program involving students from the San Jose Regional Occupational Training Center with local industries.

A graduate from the Center and a current student will be teamed with an industry which uses the students skills. The students will give live lecture—demonstrations explaining the operation.

"For instance, we will have students assembling and disassembling the automatic transmission and braking system of a 1972 compact car; demonstrating dental hygenist techniques; operating a closed circuit television system and a printing press; testing metal samples for classification and structure analysis; and making metal machine parts through the use of computer," said DuBridge.

Originally the Industrial Program was designed to team local industries and local high school students in an effort to present the advancements being made by the industries to the fairgoers.

Such a program gave the students a further educational experience and fairgoers and industry alike benefitted by material, often highly tech-

Eggs checked by "candling"

Nobody can hold a candle to the local county egg inspectors.

But they hold a lot of "candles" to a lot of eggs everyday.

Six inspectors examine eggs for defects at supermarkets and grocery stores throughout the county. They visit the average supermarket three to four times a year.

The technique they use is known as candling. They inspect the eggs with an electric candle which allows them to see inside the egg to check cracks, dirties (foreign substance on shell), below grades and internal blood.

Under a new State contract which became effective July 1 in Santa Clara County, the egg industry has organized and assessed themselves a fee to help pay for egg inspection.

The egg industry pays the State one mil (1/10 of a cent) for each dozen eggs.
